NEW CHURCH IS DECIDED UPON

St. James Lutheran Congregation
Decides in Meeting to Erect New Edifice to Replace Old One which has been Outgrown.

At a meeting held by St. James Lutheran congregation on Monday afternoon it was unanimously decided to build a new church.

About a year ago the congregation discussed the matter of either remodeling the old structure or building a new one. A committee was appointed to look into the matter and reported in favor of the latter plan to the Church Council. The committee did not take many steps going further than this as they wanted congregational action. The sanction of the congregation was given at Monday's meeting and architects' plans will at once be called for. The committee consists of Rev. Joseph Baker, C. A. Hartley, C. A. Blocher, Prof. H. Milton Roth, E. P. Miller and George Bender.

The cost of the new structure is undetermined. It will likely be placed on the site of the present building.

The church is now greatly overcrowded. The Sunday School department feels this more than any other. Practically half of the school is compelled to meet in the auditorium of the church while the infant department is greatly congested. Coupled with this is the fact that the old church building is in a very bad condition.

The present site will admit of a much larger edifice than the present structure. There are twenty feet of ground at the rear unoccupied and there is a space of ten feet between the parsonage and the old building. The plan of extending the Sunday School room across the lot in the rear of the parsonage may be adopted, giving the Sunday School room much greater width than the main auditorium. The additional 20 feet at the rear will make the auditorium fully large enough.

In addition to the new church matter no other business was transacted other than the election of the following officers, elders, E. P. Miller and C. A. B. Howard; trustee, C. A. Blocher; deacons, C. S. Reaser, H. M. Roth, George Plantz and George Bender.

RURAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Myers, of route 5, have returned home after spending several days in Hanover with Mr. Myers' mother and friends.

Mrs. A. T. Myers, of route 5, sold twenty four turkeys for which she received $65.00. Some of the younger turkeys weighed 22 1-2 pounds and she received 20 cents a pound.

John W. Black, of route 13, recently purchased a handsome new piano.

Misses Virgie and Delta Albright, of route 6, have returned home after spending a few days with relatives in Harrisburg.

Henry Staub, of Harrisburg has returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Albright of route 6.

FIRST OF SERIES

The first of the series of three farmers' institutes held in Adams County this week opened in Bendersville on Monday and continued today. The sessions were held in the Fruit Growers' Hall and were largely attended.

Topics of interest to the farmers of the county were listed for discussion and were taken up by prominent agriculturists from a distance. Entertainment numbers made up the balance of the program.

The hall was well filled at all sessions, the residents of Bendersville turning out in large numbers while the people from the surrounding districts attended well.

The institutes are conducted under the general supervision of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The Adams County Agricultural Association will hold the monthly meeting at Biglerville, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 15th, at 1.30 o'clock.

A. DITTENHAFFER WOULD JUMP OFF

Ambrose Dittenhafer Says if he could Find Jumping off Place he would Take the Leap. Wants a Job. No Home and no Money.

Ambrose Dittenhafer, recently released from the Eastern Penitentiary where he had been serving a term imposed in Adams County Court for larceny of chickens, now claims that he is "up against it." He says:

"Nobody will give me any work and I do not have sufficient money to support my family. It is right in the middle of the Winter and I cannot raise any produce with which to earn a living. No one will give me a job or lend me money, and there you are. If I steal, down the road I go. I want to lead an honest and honorable life now but it's pretty hard lines."

"I gave the penitentiary authorities no trouble and behaved so well that my sentence was commuted. My wife and child are in the Poor House. I have no place to go and nothing to eat. When I left the penitentiary I was given a new suit of clothes and $10.00. Of this $3.00 was stolen from me and after paying my carfare I used the balance to buy my little boy a suit of clothes. I want to be an honest man and stay out of prison. I don't want to kill myself but if I could just find some place where I could jump off the earth I would certainly make the leap."

Dittenhafer is perhaps one of the best known characters in Adams County. His alleged ability at doing a wholesale midnight chicken business was given considerable prominence a year or more ago. He was ejected from his home several times for non-payment of rent and finally gave Constable Shearer a merry battle before he was arrested. He was later released and a score or more of deputies a weary chase through Straban township thickets. He was finally captured after being surrounded and having guns pointed at him from every direction.

One of Dittenhafer's weapons was a large club which he carried with him during his fugitive days. This was taken into custody at the same time he was put under arrest and has done no harm since.

The man evidently intends to "turn over a new leaf" but, as he says, is getting very little help from other parties.

BRIEF NOTES

Coasting on Baltimore Hill has been enjoyed by large numbers of the young people of town for some nights.

On Monday the Board of Directors of the Citizens' Trust Company was re-elected. The place made vacant by the death of Mr. Musselman was not filled.

Edgar A. Crouse has been elected secretary of the Gettysburg Building and Loan Association.

Miss Ruth Hamilton has taken up a course in shorthand and typewriting in the Heiges Shorthand and Typewriting School.

People have spent more time "on the road" the past few days than for many months.

The "meeting" spirit seems to have got hold of Gettysburg. There are scheduled for this week no less than fifteen meetings of various local organizations.

The officers, members and collectors of the Gettysburg Bible Society are required to meet in the College Church lecture room at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. The meeting will be addressed by Rev. Mr. Van Ness of the Pennsylvania Bible Society.

MINSTRELS COMING

They will appear in musical selections during the minstrel first part at Walter Theatre on Wednesday, Jan. 12.

JOHN S. LOWER

John Solomon Lower, a well known resident of the upper end of Adams County, died at his home about one fourth of a mile from Table Rock at seven o'clock this morning aged 73 years.

Mr. Lower had been in his usual good health but on Monday morning, after doing some work about the barn, became suddenly ill when he returned to the house and did not regain consciousness up to the time of his death.

He was born in Menallen township but when he was only a year old his parents moved to the farm near Table Rock where he lived his entire life with the exception of a few years spent on another farm in Straban township between Hunterstown and Table Rock. He was a member of Bender's Reformed church.

Surviving him are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. L. L. Ullrich, of Biglerville, and one son, William Lower, living on the adjoining farm. Two brothers, Conrad and Henry Lower, both of Table Rock, also survive.

Funeral Thursday morning, meeting at the house at ten o'clock. Service and interment at Bender's church. Neighbors and friends are invited to attend the services at the church.

MRS. SARAH L. CORRIGAN

Mrs. Sarah L. Corrigan died at her home in McSherrystown, at 1.30 a. m., Monday, after an illness of four months, during which she suffered from necrosis of the bones of the face. She was aged 72 years.

Mrs. Corrigan was the last surviving daughter of the late John and Hannah (Stump) Lilly. Her mother was a native of Hartford County, Md. The old Lilly homestead was established in the Conewago Valley in 1732.

Hugh Corrigan, the husband of Mrs. Corrigan, died about 33 years ago and surviving the mother are two daughters, Miss Lilly Corrigan, at home and Miss Bernardina Corrigan, principal of the McSherrystown High School, and an only son, John Bart Corrigan, who conducts a cattle ranch near Malta, Montana. He was sent for when the condition of his mother became critical, but he did not reach home before his mother's death.

She is survived by three brothers—Dr. V. H. Lilly, of McSherrystown; Samuel Lilly, of Chicago, Illinois, and William H. S. Lilly, of St. Aubert, Missouri.

Funeral from St. Mary's Church, McSherrystown, with a High Mass of Requiem celebrated at 9 a. m., Thursday, Jan. 13, by Rev. Aug. Reutter, the rector. Interment on the family plot in the Conewago Chapel Cemetery.

The school furnished the entertainment part of the program. A collection of 75 cents was received. All the teachers were present except Mr. Baker; also two directors. The meeting proved profitable and interesting, and adjourned to meet at Hartman's School.

DECIDE NOT TO PUBLISH NAMES

At Meeting Monday Night "United Workers" Decide that Names of Liquor License Application Signers shall not Appear This Year.

At a regular meeting of the "United Workers" held Monday night the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, in the estimation of some men whose judgment is to be considered sound, we have given insufficient notice and warning that it is our intention to make public the names of all signers of applications for liquor license,

And whereas, we desire above all things to be and to be considered fair in all things and to all, therefore be it,

Resolved, that this year we do not give to the public as planned, the afore-said names, but that this be given as a warning to be followed later by additional notices, that upon another year such names will be published.

As no action was taken in this matter until last night, the statements made last week in other papers concerning the matter were premature.

TO REFORM FUNERALS

Following the campaign started several weeks ago by Dr. A. R. Steck, of York, formerly pastor of St. James Lutheran church, the York Ministerial Association, on Monday placed itself on record by vote of its members as being against the present manner of conducting funerals, and in declarations of an explanatory character, suggested a number of changes that could be adopted and which would, if put in general use, greatly relieve bereaved families of much expense, and make the task of the officiating clergyman much easier. The custom of placing black crepe on the doors of houses where deaths have occurred, and the practice of holding funerals on Sunday were criticised, along with the custom of disinterested persons gathering as such places to the annoyance of the family and all concerned.

The Rev. Dr. Steck, chairman of the committee, appointed several weeks ago to act on the matter of needed reforms in funeral customs, stated that at the next meeting of the association he would submit another resolution protesting against the custom of feasting at funerals, especially in the rural districts and ask that it be added to those adopted Monday.

USING CHURCH TO STEAL

We are informed that some colored people in town have been soliciting funds etc., for a pretended church fair and the solicitors claim that they are authorized by Asbury M. E. Church. This is all a "fake." There is no such fair going to be held under the auspices of Asbury Church. All attempts to get funds etc., are to be considered as coming from dishonest negroes who are falsely using the church as a mask for stealing. This petty thieving must be stopped. All persons found deceiving the public in this way, should be promptly reported to an officer, or the undersigned, who will prosecute to the full extent of the law.

Rev. W. W. Mayle pastor.

SCOTT JOHNSON IS CONVICTED

Murderer Caught Near Abbottstown
Convicted of Murder in the Second Degree in Maryland Circuit Court. Partly Confessed.

Scott Johnson, the escaped murderer who was caught near Abbottstown several months ago has been found guilty of murder in the second degree, in the Circuit Court for Cecil County, Md. His victim was James McAllister. Sentence was deferred for a few days at the request of the prisoner's counsel.

McAllister, who was about 47 years old, resided with his mother near Liberty Grove, Cecil County, Md. He disappeared last May and one month afterward his decomposed body was found in the woods on the Cummings farm. The body lay face downward, and the right side of the skull had been crushed in with some blunt instrument. Suspicion pointed to Johnson as, when last seen, they were together. Johnson disappeared and the authorities could find no clue as to his whereabouts until he surrendered to the Sheriff of Santa Rosa County, California, where he had confessed the crime to the Sheriff. While being brought East by Sheriff H. G. Hager of Cecil County, he made a sensational escape by diving head foremost through the trapdoor on the rear platform of the vestibuled sleeper of the train on which he and the Sheriff were traveling from Harrisburg on the morning of August 12 last. He was afterward captured near Abbottstown.

Johnson in his confession made to State's Attorney Albert Constable, and which the Court admitted as evidence, said he and McAllister had been drinking and that while going through the woods on the Cummings farm they quarreled, and that he struck McAllister on the head with a hatchet which he had brought with him.

The Judge's Advice.

Mr. Choate, having arrived at the old sighted age, did not recognize it or did not wish to commence the use of glasses. In pleading a cause he had difficulty in seeing his notes and in order properly to decipher his manuscript kept holding his paper farther and farther off. On one occasion this so annoyed the judge that he at last burst out with, "Mr. Choate, I would advise you to get one of two things—either a pair of tongs or a pair of spectacles."

He Bit.

An old fellow who made himself conspicuous about a New England church was suspected of tampering with the church collections. A couple of clumsy traps that were set for him failed to work. Then one day a young deacon walked past his house leading a new horse.

"That's a fine horse, deacon," the old fellow shouted. "Did you buy him at the fair?"

"Yes," said the deacon. Then, as the other came nearer, he added: "I bought him with my pickings out of the collection plate."

The old man looked horrified.

"Good gracious!" he said. "I've often taken enough myself to buy a hat or a pair of trousers; but, deacon, in takin' enough to buy a horse ain't ye committin' a positive sin?"

"No Three o'clock Fatigue"

The Value of the

Monarch Light Touch

A typewriter is not an automatic machine with a fixed output; the amount of work produced must always be dependent upon the operator.

The operator begins work in the morning with a certain supply of physical energy. With the ordinary heavy working typewriter she exhausts that energy before the day's end—then comes "three o'clock fatigue" and slow, dragging work.

Monarch Light Touch lightens the operator's load—draws less on her energy per folio. The result is that the operator is able to maintain full speed right up to closing time, finishing fresh and strong. Her efficiency is increased, the output of her machine is enlarged, and consequently the per folio cost of typewriting to her employer is reduced.

Let us demonstrate this and other Monarch features to you.

SAYS WOMAN POISONED HIM

Dead Man Left Letter Accusing His Companion.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—The Chicago police are confronted with a baffling murder mystery. The case is that of W. H. Holman, a jeweler, who died in the Plaza hotel at Terre Haute, Ind. The man left a note in which he wrote that a woman companion, whose name is being withheld, poisoned him. He had dined with the woman in a cafe in Chicago. Holman and the woman left this city together for Terre Haute. The woman has disappeared.

In his letter Holman says the woman had assisted him in his jewelry store during the holidays and left with $500 worth of valuables. He followed her to Indianapolis and then to Chicago, where she promised to return the jewelry.

DRIFTED 600 MILES

Navy Launch Lost in '907 Picked Up at Sea.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The United Fruit company's steamer Parismina, plying between Central American ports and New Orleans, on her last trip picked up at sea and brought to New Orleans the navy steam launch No. 428. It had drifted about 600 miles. The launch belonged to the Cape Cruz Casilda surveying expedition, and broke adrift from a tug on Nov. 7, 1907, in bad weather, while being towed from Guantanamo to Ni-quero, Cuba. There were no men on board when the boat went adrift.

POLICEMAN ARRESTS SONS AS BURGLARS

Father's Evidence Sends His Two Boys to Jail.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 11.—C. C. Reese and Leonard Reese, brothers, the sons of Officer G. T. Reese, of the Atlanta police force, were convicted of burglary on their father's evidence and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. The two boys were arrested by their father in the act of burglarizing a store last Friday night, and he appeared in court as prosecutor.

The elder Reese, in giving evidence, said: "I tried to raise my boys right and I nearly killed me when I found them trying to rob the store, but I feel it my duty under my oath as an officer to arrest them and prosecute. I told them they were guilty and they must take their punishment."

"There is indeed a real man," said Judge Roan, when the elder Reese had finished speaking, "and an officer who has the highest possible regard for his oath. He deserves to rank with the old Roman judge who condemned his own son."

LED A DUAL LIFE

Man's Death at Stroudsburg, Pa., Creates Sensation.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Jan. 11.—Immediately following the death of Robert J. Sewell, of New York, at the Monroe County hospital, came the startling news that Sewell had led a dual life, and the arrival here of the real Mrs. Sewell from Trenton, N. J., created a sensation.

Sewell arrived in Stroudsburg about a month ago with a woman he introduced as his wife. He was taken sick and removed to the hospital for treatment. He said he represented the Wireless Telephone company, of Newark, and sold its stocks. Mrs. Sewell, No. 1, the real wife, arrived here and claimed the body. The lady appeared before Squire Robert Gruver and had a warrant sworn out for the strange woman's arrest, whose name is said to be Mildred Meredith, upon three charges. The woman was placed in the county jail.

The real Mrs. Sewell said that her husband had been home within the past six weeks and told of his ability of making money, having earned as much as $7000 in one week. Sewell at one time resided at Hazleton, where the Interment will take place.

TWO DEAD IN AUTO CRASH

Three Dead and Two Injured in Collision With Street Car.

Left $25,000 to Charity.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 11.—Among the many bequests left by George S. Bennett, a millionaire of this city, were $5000 to Drew Theological university, of Madison, N. J.; $5000 to the Wyoming seminary, of Kingston, Pa.; $5000 to the Wilkes-Barre City hospital; $5000 to the Home of the Friendless of this city; and $5000 to the First Methodist Sunday school of this city. Recently he gave $10,000 to Wesleyan university, of which he was a trustee.

Elopement Caused Suicide.

Asbury Park, N. J., Jan. 11.—George W. Thompson, president of the city excise board, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head at his home here. The act is believed to have been caused by worry over the condition of his health and his son's recent elopement and marriage to a maid to Queen Titania IX, whom he met while acting as one of the officials during last summer's baby parade.

Drolicon bought a photograph and insisted upon his mother-in-law having her voice registered by the instrument.

As the good woman refused, he added maliciously:

"Oh, come, now; just a few words. You can't think how much pleasure it will give me to hear your voice—when you are gone!"—Paris Figaro.

TAFT RAILROAD BILL PRESENTED

Introduced in Both Branches of Congress.

DRAFTED BY WICKERSHAM

Provides For Special Court of Five Federal Judges to Have Jurisdiction Over Matters Growing Out of Orders of Interstate Commission—Permits Pooling.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Representative Townsend introduced in the house the bill embodying the recommendations outlined in the special message of President Taft for amendments to the interstate commerce law. It provides, among other things, for a special court composed of five federal circuit judges to have exclusive original jurisdiction over matters growing out of orders of the interstate commerce commission.

This court is to be composed of five circuit judges, who shall serve by assignment of the chief justice for a term of five years, but no two of the judges' terms will expire at the same time, and thus under all circumstances four of the judges will have had several years' experience with these technical questions.

When an order of the commission is contested in the commerce court the petition of the carrier taking the matter into the court will not stay the operation of the order, nor can it be enjoined except by the court or by some member of it, and then only upon notice and hearing, except in cases where irreparable injury would be caused by such notice and hearing, in which case the court or judge granting the injunction must make a finding from facts to the effect that irreparable injury would result.

Provision is made for the prosecution and defense of all matters taken into the commerce court by the department of justice, and for this purpose it is proposed to appoint an assistant to the attorney general, who shall have special charge of all such cases.

As recommended by the president, agreements between carriers will be permitted, provided they are made public and filed with the commission and subject to the same rules and regulations as to justness and reasonableness as are rates and other recognized regulations.

Carriers must quote correctly in writing upon the written request of a shipper any rate between the place of proposed shipment and any other place on the carrier's line or any line with which the initial carrier has any traffic arrangements, as evidenced by joint published tariffs. In case an erroneous rate is given in writing whereby a shipper in injured the carrier whose agent has made the misquotation is subject to a penalty of $250, to be collected by and paid to the government.

The bill would empower the commission to suspend the carrier's notice of change of rate pending decision as to whether the proposed new rate is just and reasonable.

It is proposed to prevent the issuance of stock and bonds except for legitimate railroad purposes and with the approval of the commission, and, as recommended in the special message of the president, it is proposed to prohibit every carrier from acquiring any stock in a line of railroad which in any way competes with it except as a court may find that the people are better served by such acquisition.

The bill was presented to the senate today by Senator Elkins. The draft was made by Attorney General Wickersham after many conferences with President Taft, who had discussed the proposed legislation with members of the interstate commerce commission and with railroad officials.

Mr. Elkins said he hoped at least that the investigation would result in sufficient publicity to place the blame where it belonged.

FRICK RESTORES WAGES

20,000 Workmen Receive Advance to Equal Rate Paid in 1907.

Pittsburg, Jan. 11.—The H. C. Frick company, the fuel end of the United States Steel corporation, posted notices at all of its plants of an advance in wages, to take effect Jan. 18. The advance marks the restoration of the boom wages of 1907, which were cut when the financial panic came on, and the restoration removes the last vestige of a great panic in the Pittsburg industrial district. About 20,000 workmen will enjoy the raise directly and about 80,000 others will feel the good effects.

SUGAR EMPLOYEES SENT TO PRISON

Four Checkers Sentenced to One Year Each.

New York, Jan. 11.—Judge Martin, of the United States district court for the district of Vermont, sentenced the four former checkers of the American Sugar Refining company on the Williamsburg docks of the Havemeyer & Elder refinery, who were convicted on Dec. 17 last of conspiracy to defraud the government out of customs duties by underweighing sugar importations, to serve one year each in the New York county penitentiary on Blackwell's Island. The four convicted men are Edward A. Boyle, John R. Coyle, Thomas Kehoe and Patrick J. Hennessy.

Sentence on Oliver Spitzer, the former superintendent of the sugar company's docks in Williamsburg, who was also convicted, was temporarily suspended until Feb. 1, owing to the necessity for an operation for hemorrhoids which, it is understood, the convicted man is to undergo in the Long Island College hospital. Counsel for the sugar checkers announced that an appeal would be taken at once.

The consul in London of a continental kingdom was informed by his government that one of his countrywomen, supposed to be living in Great Britain, had been left a million of money. After advertising without result he applied to the police, and a smart young detective was set to work.

When a few weeks had gone by his chief asked him how he was going on. "I've found the lady, sir."

"Good! Where is she?" "At my place. I got married to her yesterday!"

ENDED BEFORE BEGUN

By ANNA WOODBRIDGE.
[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

I have had a love affair of which I was not conscious till it was all over. How could this be? Listen and I will tell you.

I went to Paris to study art. I was then a girl of nineteen. I lived in a pension occupying one floor of a five story building. There was an elevator, one of that foreign kind which you enter, shut the doors, press a button, and the cage takes you up, stopping at your floor. I lived on the fourth floor. Sometimes I used the elevator and sometimes walked up or down the staircase. One day when ascending on foot a door opened at the third landing and a young man came out and met me on the staircase. He was very handsome, with great, dreamy eyes, and faultlessly dressed. I wished to look at him, but he kept his eyes fixed on me, and I felt constrained to turn mine away.

There was that about him which made me desirous to see him again, but we did not happen to meet for several days. Then we met quite frequently. I was so conceited as to think that he learned the hour when I came from the art school and met me purposely. Possibly he might have watched at a window for me to enter the building. At any rate, we met so frequently that I felt I had reason to suspect that it was not all accidental.

After awhile he began to raise his hat to me when he passed. I replied to his salute with a nod which I tried to make appear indifferent. There was nothing presuming in his notice of me, only civility. Indeed, his manner was so deferential as well as engaging that I was quite won by it. In time he gave me a scarcely perceptible smile in passing. I did not return it. I was brought up in America with the understanding that if you give a Frenchman an inch he will take an ell. Nevertheless the time came when there was occasion for me to speak to him. I was carrying some sketches up to my room, and one slid out of my portfolio and fluttered down the staircase. He ran down after it, picked it up and handed it to me. His lips were one of his sweet smiles, and he looked things unutterable with his eyes. Of course I thanked him, but that was all. I passed on up to my abiding place and entered without a look behind me.

One day I became aware that another person was interested in me. As I entered the building where I lived I saw a face at a window opposite. It was the face of a man, and he stared at me. Indeed, it was so evident that I was an object of marked importance to him that I felt troubled. I ran into the house, took the elevator and was lifted to my pension. After that every day when I went home the man opposite was at his window, and every time he stared at me. Finally I delayed or anticipated my arrival in order to escape him.

There was such a contrast between his manner and that of the young man on the floor below me that I rather warmed to the latter. The next time I met him I spoke a few trivial words to him. He replied in kind, treating my action as a matter of mere politeness, and passed on. After that when I met him I encouraged him to make my acquaintance. Finally I told him of the man across the street who stared at me. The truth is I craved protection. My friend was sympathetic, but nothing more.

The next day I had occasion to go out to do an errand in the early morning. I had just closed the door behind me when I heard a door open on the floor below and my friend appeared. He waited for me till I came down to him. I noticed that he was dressed all in black. Not a white speck was visible, even at his throat. I asked if he had lost any one dear to him, and he said he had not. He regarded me with a singular expression, which I could not interpret, but it seemed to me such an expression as a man to whom I belonged might wear or that of one who was making a sacrifice for me. We walked down to the street together. A carriage was standing at the door. My friend looked at me earnestly, lifted his hat, got into the carriage and was driven away. I went on to the art school, where I became engrossed in my studies and was oblivious to all else.

When I went home by a rapid glance I satisfied myself that the face I dreaded was not at the window. I hoped I would meet my friend on the stairs. I did not. Nor did I again meet him. A week passed, another, a third, and I did not see him. What did it mean? Had he left the place without speaking of his going to me? I was astonished at myself for expecting him to inform me of his intentions.

I tried to forget all about him, but failed signally. I lost interest in my studies. I lay awake nights. At last, when I could endure to remain uninformed no longer, I knocked at the door from which I had so often seen him come out, determined to learn the truth.

I was received by a lady, who gave me a pressure of the hand and a melancholy, sympathetic smile. "He roomed in my apartments," she said. "He gave me his confidence. He loved you and lost his life as your protector. The morning you last met him he was killed in a duel with the man of whom you complained to him."

I stood staring at the woman in mute astonishment. A man had loved me, had died for me, and yet we had not exchanged a word of love.

I have never married, and there is no possibility of my marrying.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the hair, etc. A very quick and sensible cure is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others may be helped, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over the cathartic tablets and salts, which you can take and does not grip. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not grip. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 521 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Ten Doctors Said He Would Die

"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannuated by the North Georgian Conference. Ten doctors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Restorative Nerve. We did as advised, and improvement was apparent from the very first. He recovered and one Conference in 1904 gave him a charge. He never felt better, although he has very heavy work and does a great deal of camp meeting work. I am so glad we took your advice and gave him the medicine, and feel that I ought to let you know of the wonderful good results from its use."

This proves what Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy will do. Get a bottle from your druggist and take it according to directions. It does not matter whether your heart is merely weak, or you have organic trouble, if it does not benefit you take the empty bottle to your druggist and get your money back.

J. A. STOBER FOUND DEAD

Heart Trouble Kills Pennsylvania Treasurer-Elect.

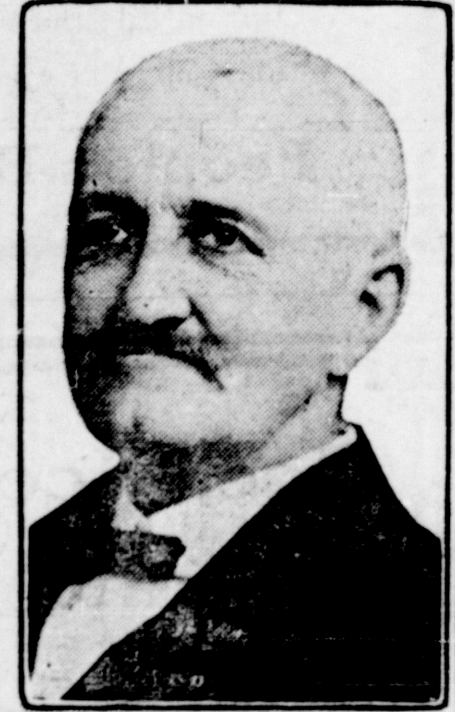

HE HAD NOT BEEN ILL

Wife Found His Lifeless Body In Bed When She Went to Call Him For Breakfast—Elected to Office Last Fall.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 11.—State Treasurer-Elect Jeremiah A. Stober was found dead in bed by his wife at his home in Schoenick, in the northern end of Lancaster county. He was sixty-seven years old. The cause of death was heart trouble.

He had not been in ill health, and his death was a great surprise and shock. He would have been inducted into his new office in May.

Mr. Stober complained of feeling badly when he returned home on Sunday night, but his family was not alarmed at his condition, although he passed a very restless night, suffering considerably from insomnia. His wife arose, and when she went down stairs to prepare breakfast Mr. Stober was resting comfortably.

After she had prepared the meal she went upstairs to call him, but got no response and found him dead. He had evidently been dead for half an hour. The coroner and a physician were summoned, and they pronounced his death due to an affection of the heart.

Jeremiah Albert Stober was born in Clay township, Lancaster county, on Jan. 28, 1843. He was educated in the public schools and Ephrata academy. When fourteen years old he became a clerk in a country store.

In 1863 he enlisted in the Union army and served as a home guard when General Lee invaded the state.

Mr. Stober was a lifelong Republican, and for more than thirty years represented West Cocalico township in the county committee of his party. He was elected to the house of representatives for the sessions of 1875, 1876, 1877 and 1878, took an active part in the work of the legislature and served on important committees.

In November, 1898, Mr. Stober was elected to the state senate. In 1902 Mr. Stober was re-elected to the senate. During both terms he served on most important committees. He was prominent in secret society affairs, having been a Mason since 1876. He was a past grand Odd Fellow for more than thirty years, served as department grand chancellor for Lancaster county in the Knights of Pythias and as district president for Lancaster county of the Patriotic Order of Sons of America.

HIS SUCCESSOR IN DOUBT

Question as to Whether Present State Treasurer Can Hold Over.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 11.—The death of Jeremiah A. Stober, state treasurer-elect, has raised an entirely new question in succession in state offices, and Capitol Hill officials frankly admit that they do not know what will be done.

It was at first thought that Governor Stuart would have to appoint some one to fill the office at the expiration of the term of State Treasurer Sheatz and serve until a new treasurer can be elected by the people. Then arose the question whether Mr. Sheatz will hold over until the treasurer to be elected shall qualify. The state treasurer takes the latter ground, stating that his commission reads that he shall hold office until his successor shall qualify.

FOOD CARRIER FREEZES

Father Drops on Way Home With Needed Provisions.

Selinsgrove, Pa., Jan. 11.—In his endeavor to take food to his wife and children, William Kreamer, residing near Globe Mills, Snyder county, was frozen to death, his body remaining in the field over night, until found by his son.

The home larder was empty, and Kreamer walked to the village, four miles away, to purchase food. With a bag of potatoes on one shoulder and a sack of flour on the other, he started to walk home. The weight of the provisions fatigued him, and he decided to lessen the journey by traveling through the fields. As he trudged on he weakened under the load, finally fell exhausted, only to freeze to death.

PLOT TO KILL KING MANUEL

Forty Arrests Made and Palace Garrison Strengthened.

Lisbon, Jan. 11.—According to the newspaper reports the police of this city have unearthed a Republican plot against the life of King Manuel. Forty arrests have been made, including a number of persons who are believed to have been implicated in the murder of the late King Carlos.

As a result of the recent revelations the garrison at the palace has been strengthened and the greatest vigilance is being exercised. Sentinels fired on several suspicious persons who had been seen lurking near the palace.

INSURGENTS READ OUT OF PARTY

Names of Anti-Cannon Men Dropped From List.

Washington, Jan. 11.—It was said in the house that Representative Dwight, of New York, Republican whip, had taken the names of the insurgents off the list of those to whom he regularly sends notices demanding attendance at divisions.

The insurgents are greatly angered at the action of the Republican congressional committee declaring them without the party pale so far as concerns support from the committee in the coming congressional election.

Half a dozen of the leaders of the revolt, who were seen, were unanimously in favor of calling a meeting without delay and replying to the committee.

Won't Be Put Out.

Mr. Hayes, of California, said: "The congressional committee cannot put me outside of the Republican party by any such declaration. They cannot impugn my party fealty."

"I have voted regularly and consistently for Republican policies, and they cannot deny it. I intend to continue to do so. I voted for Cannon and the tariff bill, although I may say I was not entirely suited by either."

"The insurgents will have a meeting within a day or two, and we will see about this thing. Two can play at this game, they will find."

Mr. Norris, of Nebraska, expressed himself as in favor of fighting back with all the vigor possible.

HEIRESS AND WAITER FOUND

Arrested in Rooming House in Chicago.

GIRL TELLS PATHETIC STORY

Says She Was Lonesome After the Death of Her Mother, and as There Appeared to Be Nothing But a Boarding School for Her She Ran Away.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Miss Roberta De Janon, the young Philadelphia heiress, and Frederick Cohen, a waiter, who eloped ten days ago, were arrested in a rooming house here.

To Captain Rehm, in charge of the station, the girl told a pathetic story of loneliness. She said that her mother had just died, and that her father was living in another city. There appeared to be nothing for her but a boarding school. Nobody seemed to understand or sympathize with her but Cohen, a waiter, married and forty-two years old. He was employed in the same hotel where she lived. "I did not see my father very often, and on the first of October mother and I took apartments in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel. My grandfather, Robert Bulst, was with us a great deal of the time. On the second day of November my mother died after a short illness and I was almost heart broken. I cried a great deal and was very lonesome. There was nothing that money could buy that I could not have, yet I was very unhappy."

"Then, to cap the climax, soon after my mother had passed away my grandfather said he was going to send me to Mrs. Shipley's preparatory school at Bryn Mawr."

"The very thought of going to a place of that kind, where I knew no one and had no idea of the kind of people I would meet, made me desperate."

Cohen Sympathized With Her.

"Mr. Cohen was a waiter in the private dining room in the hotel where I took my meals, and to him I talked a great deal after my mother had gone. He sympathized with me and seemed to understand how I felt. He knew what my sorrows were, and it was only natural that in a short time I told him everything. His sympathy and kindness seemed to relieve me a great deal and I began to respect him greatly."

"Finally, when I could stand my lonesomeness no longer, I begged him to take me away. He refused at first, even after he admitted that he loved me, and not until I had threatened to kill myself would he consent. Then we made out plans."

When speaking of her mother her eyes filled and her voice sank to a whisper.

When she spoke of Cohen it was evident that she held him in high regard in spite of the fact she was compelled to pawn her jewelry to buy food since their arrival here.

Beginning with their flight from Philadelphia on Dec. 29, the girl told how they had gone to New York and spent one night there. In New York they decided to go to London, England, but fearing detection if they tried to embark in this country, they took a train to Montreal. Failing to catch a transatlantic steamer at Montreal, they had hoped to do, they traveled by rail to St. John's, N. B., where they boarded the steamer Corsican. According to the girl's story, they would not allow her to have her dog "Tootsy" with her on the boat, so they landed when they touched at Halifax, N. S. But as their combined capital when they started from Philadelphia was only $140—$125 belonging to the girl and $15 to Cohen—it is believed they did not have money enough left for their passage to England.

Passed as Father and Daughter.

From Halifax the pair went to Boston, and after staying there one night hurried on to Chicago, reaching here last Thursday morning.

"We passed as father and daughter wherever we went," explained Miss De Janon. "Sometimes we gave one name and sometimes another, but usually we registered as 'Mr. Robert La Place and daughter.'"

Reaching Chicago, Cohen secured a room at 68 West Superior street, where he and the De Janon girl have been doing light housekeeping. Cohen has been looking for employment as a waiter, but being unable to find anything to do, the girl gave him her bracelet and necklace, which he had pawned for $10. When arrested the pair had only $1.60 in their possession.

Elk, Neb., Jan. 11.—Unable to decide whether she should marry Henry Ransom or Jason Brown, Miss Amelia McIntyre gave them a dinner. Taking the wishbone of the turkey, she handed it to them, saying she was the stake, the one getting the short end to lose. The suitors broke it and Brown lost.

For the seniorial sections of the west is that there must be a radical change in depth of plowing, methods of cultivation, etc. Instead of three or four, he should plow the land in the new country to a depth of six or seven inches, while his aim in the surface cultivation of the soil must not be, as in the humid section, to accelerate the evaporation of the moisture from the soil, but by the creation of a fine dust mulch to reduce this evaporation to the minimum. The application of the old and familiar methods to the new conditions can only result in grievous disappointment.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

There is not so much corn fed to fowls here as people are learning that it is a fat producer and that its exclusive use breeds disease.

That Chinese poultrymen are ambitious for trade is shown by a shipment of 116 barrels of eggs to America. The quality of Chinese eggs is based on age, the older the better. They serve eggs fifty years old, and a century old eggs commands a great price.

A flock that must roost in a house full of knotholes might as well roost in the trees, and chickens that must stand out in the snow to get a breath of pure air should be cooked quick before the epidemic gets there.

Two hundred geese escaped from crates while being conveyed across the Delaware to Philadelphia and swam down the river. Only thirty were captured. Thus a thousand Thanksgiving dinners disappeared in an unorthodox way.

As the statistics of the poultry census "must be correct," what will those fellows report who have been doing hot air advertising of their "immense" plants and flocks? Then to be classed as a poultry farm the annual output must exceed $200. Hope they'll not fib under oath. like they do in their hot air picture books.

You will find a few hens with a grouch in every flock. They are always henpecking the others, especially at the trough and on the roost. Potpie is the place for poultry pessimists.

It is claimed that the average Kansas cackler brings a profit of $1.08 per year. A Baltimore newspaper reporter says some was made this $20. With all its oysters, lobsters and clams, news from Baltimore can't help but be a little fishy except what we hear from her great poultry show, which this year beat all records. In its thousands of entries just half the states in the Union were represented.

Our Pennsylvania goose bone prophet at Reading predicts a big blizzard for February and an awful stormy March. Flarebacks only occur in inaugural years.

Eleven thousand chickens were roasted at the plant of the United States Packing company in a fire at Hutchinson, Kan.; loss, $50,000.

"What is a piano credit bond, check or certificate?"

The first prize called for $20, the second for $10, the third for $5, and fifteen others for $1 each. There were over 650 answers from all over the St te, many of them clever. The judges were George W. Staley, shoe mercha t; Bascum Montgomerie, furniture merchant, and George R. Calhoun, jeweler. The first prize was one won by Mr. B. O. Guggan, of Nashville and is as follows:

"What is a piano bond, credit check or certificate? A delusion and a snare. A nar-hmell-w in the mouth and a green persimmon in the inards. A draft on credulity, payable in unfulfilled expectations. A parody on common sense. A Smyrna fig grown in California and packed in Utah. The bastard offspring of desire and disappointment."

The second prize was won by Mrs. M. S. Ditmore, of Dwyer, Tenn., and is as follows:

"A season's ticket to Pools Paradise. The time limit of those tickets varies in proportion as the degree of fool varies in the individual holders. The less fool the possessor is the sooner he sees the point, and the time limit is reached. It is a receipted tuition statement from Experience's School. DON'T WAIT

Take Advantage of a Gettysburg Citizen's Experience Before It's Too Late.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic.

Till serious kidney troubles develop; Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by a Gettysburg citizen's experience.

Miss K. Crouse, 135 West St., Gettysburg, Pa. says: "I suffered from kidney disease for years and was unable to find anything that would give me even temporary relief. I endured a great deal of misery from pains in the small of my back and I was also greatly troubled with headaches and dizzy spells. My kidneys gave me much trouble and the complaint was growing worse daily. When a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the People's drug store and they proved to be just what I required. They went at once to the seat of the trouble and gave me immediate relief. I am now in better health than before in years, and it is all due to the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills."

A GAMBLING PROPOSITION.

There is just enough of the gambling instinct in a fellow so that after he has attended a big corn show where all kinds of whopping, even rowed ears have been on exhibition, so much larger and finer types than that corn which he has grown in his own field, in the north part of the corn belt, he has an itching to try to raise the same big corn, when the chances are ten to one that he will not reach a proper maturity in the short growing season where he lives. This tendency is one of the very few ill effects of a corn show, yet it is one that every corn show director, every experienced station instructor and every agricultural paper should dwell on persistently.

The second national apple show was held in Spokane this year the latter part of November. Some idea of its magnitude may be had from the fact that the three floors of the Washington state armory, containing in all 100,000 square feet, and a steam heated tent 225 by 300 feet were required to accommodate the exhibits. Prizes aggregating $25,000 were offered, the chief being $1,000 for the best exhibit in the carload class, which called for 630 boxes, or 210 barrels, of one or more standard varieties. Besides, there were prizes for best box, barrel, pyramid, basket and plate displays. Fruit from all the principal apple growing sections was on exhibition, and the show was conceded to be superior to that of last year. The total number of apples on exhibition was placed at 2,000,000.

One of the most practical as well as valuable phases of the work of the federal department of agriculture during the past year has been along the line of helping the southern farmer to help himself through the conduct of model and co-operative farms more or less directly under the supervision of its field agents. This plan has been found most helpful along the line of securing radical changes of farm methods which have been long in vogue. The good work was started six years ago with one field agent and one model farm. Today there are 362 field agents, who exercise direct or indirect supervision over 60,000 farms. The result of the work has been to secure a better preparation of the soil, better varieties of seed, more intensive cultivation of the soil and the production on the farms of the stuff needed for the consumption of both man and beast.

HIS GOOD NAME.

By HARRY C. ERNEST.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Van Rastle was a gentleman who had struck a streak of bad luck. He wore a threadbare suit, a hat with a hole in the top, and his trousers were much frayed. Nevertheless he prided himself that a gentleman is always a gentleman even in rags and his own breeding would always be recognized. And it was recognized so long as he lived where he had been born and brought up. But Van Rastle concluded to try his luck in the wild west, and when he came to that country, where pedigree is not considered, he found himself on the same social basis as a stage driver or a cowboy.

Van Rastle was prospecting on Clear creek, in Colorado, or, rather, he was digging for a mine he thought he had struck. One night while sleeping in the little cabin he had thrown together for temporary protection he was awakened by the sound of footsteps without. Presently he saw where his door was a streak of perpendicular light and knew that the door was being opened. In a few moments the light had become a square, in the center of which was a crouching figure. It crawled into the cabin and had its hand on what few dollars Van Rastle possessed when the matter came to a crisis by Van Rastle ordering him to throw up his hands.

The next scene was a western courtroom, the judge sitting on the typical dry goods box. The prisoner, an ill-favored young man with a crafty eye, stood apart. The judge addressed the prisoner:

"Now, then, Tom Baker, what you been tryin' to rob this man for?"

"Hain't I got a right to plead guilty or not guilty?" asked the prisoner.

"Oh, you been tried so many times you know a lot about law, don't you?"

"Reckon I pleads not guilty."

"How air you goin' to prove sich rot as that?"

"I don't need to prove it. You got to prove that I robbed him."

"Waal, that's easy. Step up, Mr.—"

"Van Rastle," the witness supplemented with some of his former pride in his name.

"What's that fust part of it?"

"Van."

"Well, Mr. Dan Hustler, tell how this galoot robbed you."

"I heard a step without."

"How didn't you know it wasn't a painter?" interrupted the accused.

"Then my door opened," continued the witness, "and I saw the figure of the prisoner."

"How did you know it was me?"

"He crawled in and had his hand on my money."

"His money, judge? Jes' 's if a misable lookin' coyote like that ever had any money?"

Mr. Van Rastle winced.

"I ordered him to throw up his hands. He did so, and, grabbing him by the collar—"

"Judge, he's got to prove I had a coat on! I hain't got no coat and nary collar to my shirt."

"Then I marched him down here to Empire and turned him in to the com-mittee."

"I told you, Tom Baker," said the judge sternly, "it was easy 'nuff to prove you done it."

"Mightn't I have the witness?" asked the prisoner.

"Have the witness! No. You got his money. What d'you want him fur?"

"I want cross examine him."

"Oh! More law talk, eh? Well, go ahead."

"What's yer name, Dan?"

"Peter Stuyvesant Van Rastle."

"D'ye hear that, judge? He admits he's by occupation a rustler."

Then followed questions as to the witness' age, place of residence—indeed, everything the prisoner could think of. Finally the judge stopped the questioning with:

"You, Tom Baker, shet up! Yer thinkin' you air a-runnin' this case instead of me. How many times you been in jail?"

"S'pose I hev been in jail, judge. Didn't you never read any stories in the newspapers tellin' how an innocent man went to jail because one o' his pals turned state's evidence and swore him away?"

"This hain't no such case, Tom Baker. You was caught in the act."

"Who caught me? This yere rustler says he caught me, but how you goin' to believe him? Hain't my word 's good as hisn?"

The judge looked puzzled.

"Tom Baker," he said presently, "what'd you go and mix me all up fur?"

"I didn't mix you up, judge. I jist set you right. How do you know what crimes he's committed?"

The judge looked at Van Rastle suspiciously.

"Stranger," he said, "hev you—hev you?"

He paused. He was trying to say something that he couldn't get out. Then a sudden thought struck him.

"Tom Baker," he said, "you go 'long. And if ever you are brought up before this yere court ag'in I'll turn you over to the committee to lift you where the grass 's too short fer yer toes to tread on."

The prisoner went away jubilant. Van Rastle, dismayed at the course the trial had taken, stood irresolute whether to make a protest or go to his cabin without saying anything. After all but he and the judge had left the room the judge said to him:

"Dan Rustler, I want to explain. That Tom Baker's one the sharpest rascals in these mountings. Ef I hain't shet him off he'd air brought out yer whole record."

A PRESSING QUESTION.

If reports which are being circulated in different sections of the corn belt are to be credited the cold snap of Oct. 12 and 13, which damaged the apple crop from Colorado eastward and as far south as central Missouri and ruined hundreds of thousands of bushels of potatoes in the Dakotas, in Minnesota and Wisconsin, very seriously impaired the vitality of much of the corn still in the field at the time. In some counties in the corn belt it is stated by those in a position to know

[This matter must not be reprinted without special permission.]

THE MYSTERY OF THE SALMON.

There is no member of the large family of fishes that presents a more interesting study than the salmon—not only because of the mystery of certain phases of its life, but because of its commercial value as a supplier of wholesome food for mankind. The salmon is one of a very few fish which are able to live in both fresh and salt water. The female salmon seek the streams of their birth at four years old, making the most strenuous efforts to reach their remotest tributaries. After ascending rapids and leaping waterfalls they at last reach a suitable place to deposit their eggs. They possess but one set of ovaries, and both they and the males which follow die when the reproductive process is completed. It is a pathetic sight to see the bruised and battered condition of these noble fish, the result of their attempts to ascend swift mountain streams. During the season of their birth in the smaller streams the small fry descend to the ocean and are not heard from again until at four years of age they ascend the streams in which they were hatched and sacrifice life, as did their progenitors. There has been much speculation as to where this interval is spent, but no one has as yet solved the mystery. It is said that after leaving the ocean salmon take no food, being seemingly bent on the one purpose of perpetuating their kind. Another well known fact yet unexplained is that salmon will frequent one stream to spawn, yet will avoid another water-course near by seemingly as good and without any apparent reason. The Chinook salmon, which often attains a weight of eighty pounds, is the most highly prized for food, and it is this kind which has the rich flavor and shows the deep salmon color when taken from the can. The catch of salmon has been so great in recent years that millions of eggs are now hatched annually in plants owned by the government in order to replenish the rapidly decreasing supply.

WATER RIGHT GUARANTEES.

The settler in any of the arid or semiarid sections of the west, where irrigation is required in the growing of crops of whatever kind, should in the purchase of land be most particular in regard to the water rights which go with it. He should see to it first of all that the parties back of the irrigation system are absolutely reliable and above even the suspicion of crookedness and dishonesty. A government irrigation project is reliable in the matter of its water guarantees, for no more land is sold than the engineers are positive can be adequately supplied with water when moisture is needed. There are some private irrigation companies whose guarantee is just as good, but there are many other projects where land is being sold at long prices in which water could not be furnished in sufficient quantities at the critical time if one were to wait till he became gray headed. Water in the ditch between November and May, when it is not needed or used, is a different thing than little or no water from May to October, when it is needed; hence when irrigated land is bought the guarantee of the water privileges must be in the most direct and plain terms, so that no loophole will be left through which the guarantors may evade furnishing a service for which they are duly paid. It may be a nuisance to have to look after this matter, but attending to it at the proper time will mean a lot less grief later on.

THE CARLOAD PRIZE.

The chief prize striven for by the fruit growers who exhibited at the national apple show held at Spokane, Wash., the latter part of November was $1,000 in gold hung up for the best carload of 630 boxes of fruit of one variety. Last season this prize went to a fruit ranchman in the Wenatchee valley, in Washington, on a carload of Whitesaps. At the show just held the first prize was captured by H. B. Tronson of Eagle Point, Ore., on a carload of Spitzenburgs, his exhibit scoring 92 1/2 points. The second prize of $500 went to W. W. Sawyer, who owns extensive fruit ranches in the Yakima valley, in central Washington. He exhibited a car of Grimes Golden, which scored but one-eighth of a point below his successful competitor. It has been contended by some that the Hood river, Wenatchee and Yakima apples surpass the Rogue river, from the standpoint of color, but the awarding of the premier prize this year to southern Oregon Spitzenburgs would seem to show that the growers there will have to be reckoned with even in the matter of color. The exhibits are judged from the standpoint of the shape and uniform size of the apples, freedom from bruise or defect, etc., while the way they are packed and displayed is also an important consideration.

that it is doubtful if there was a bushel of sound seed corn left after the freeze. If this is the case here and there it is quite likely that like damage has been done over a considerable area of the corn belt in which the freeze referred to was heavy. It goes without saying, too, that if such damage has been done the best time to determine its extent is now and not three or four months hence. It is dead sure that seed corn which is worthless now is not going to improve any as the winter advances. The

LOST HIS MONEY.

Made a Bet and Foolishly Picked the Wrong Member.

There was an eminent English sergeant at law some years ago who had a cork leg that was a triumph of artistic deception. None but his intimates knew for certain which was the real and which was the sham limb. A wild young wag of the "outer bar," who knew the sergeant pretty well, once thought to utilize this knowledge of the sergeant's secret to take in a green, newly fledged young barrister. The sergeant was addressing a special jury at Westminster in his usual earnest and vehement style, and the wag whispered to his neighbor:

"You see how hot old Buzfuz is over his case. Now, I'll bet you a sovereign I'll run this pin into his leg up to the head and he'll never notice it, he's so absorbed in his speech. He's a most extraordinary man in that way."

A Heaven of a Time.

Little Helen had developed the habit of holding her thumb in her mouth, even while eating. The mother had resorted to all sorts of methods to correct the child and finally in desperation said:

"Helen, the first thing you know you will swallow your thumb, and then what will you do?"

"Well, mother, I should hate to swallow it, because I'd have a heaven of a time without it."

"Why, Helen?" said the astonished mother. "Where did you hear an expression like that?"

"Well—well," hesitated the little girl, "I didn't hear it exactly like that, mother, but I thought it would sound better."—Lippincott's.

Don't Be Selfish.

If we avoid sympathy and wrap ourselves round in a cold chain armor of selfishness we exclude ourselves from many of the greatest and purest joys of life. To render ourselves insensible to pain we must forfeit also the possibility of happiness.—Sir John Lubbock.

Her Preference.

The young man who said he'd never eaten any to somebody who asked him if he liked Trollope was outdone the other day in a Fifth Avenue book store, says the New York Sun. A girl of seventeen came in and asked the clerk for Prometheus, "by a man named Kelley or Sheets or something like that."

"Oh," said the clerk, "Shelley's 'Prometheus Unbound'?"

"Yes," replied the girl; "that's it. But, if you please, I'd rather have it bound; it's so easy to lose the pages, you know, if it isn't."

The Whole Science of It.

Two women walking along one of the business thoroughfares of New York heard a great shouting of "Extry, extry!" and looked about to see where all the noise was coming from. Across the street they spied one very small newsboy shouting with all his might.

One of the women, attracting the boy's attention, called him to her and bought a paper; then as she dropped the pennies into the little fellow's hand she said:

"You mustn't make so much noise, my little man. You can sell your papers just as well without yelling so."

For half a second the boy looked up at her in surprise, then exclaimed:

"You don't understand, missus; you have got to yell like — to make a living in New York."

Doubly Revenged.

They were a happy pair, bent on enjoying themselves, and they didn't much mind if the other passengers suffered in consequence. Presently the girl started to criticize the clothes worn by an elderly female sitting on the opposite seat, and the youth, wishing to please, entered into the thing heartily.

The old lady's old fashioned outfit was fully criticised, with more or less giggling on the young lady's part; the cut of her skirt was condemned, and there is no telling what might have come next if the woman had not put a sudden stop to the conversation by a bit of clever feminine strategy.

She turned her head, noticed that the girl was considerably older than the youth and in the smoothest of tones said:

"Madam, will you please ask your son to stop staring at me? It becomes irritating."
